

(a) Density methods: support depends on grain form and hand hardness

(b) Elastic modulus methods: support narrows by density and grain form

(c) Poisson's ratio methods: support is most restrictive

